Critical Illness Insurance

Seller's Guide

Assurity has been part of the development of critical illness insurance since the product's beginning. Sales growth for CI is projected to increase 22 percent annually, according to Gen Re.¹

Capture that growth by using this guide for a fresh, no-nonsense approach to selling our product, which we've designed with simplicity in mind – both for you and the client.

Where we fit best

- 25- to 55-year-old working Americans
- Household incomes of $35,000 to $150,000
- May be single, but more likely have one or two dependents
- Post-fulltime education and pre-retirement

Opportunities in today's market

The rising costs of healthcare, coupled with high deductibles, are leaving many middle-class Americans who face cancer, heart disease and other serious illnesses with thousands of dollars of debt.

Thousands are turning to crowdfunding websites like GoFundMe for help.

The need is real. Think of the difference $30,000 could make for a person who has just been diagnosed with a serious illness. There's never been a better time to sell critical illness insurance.

Did you know

Google searches for critical illness insurance average between 15,000 and 30,000 per month. These numbers peak during open enrollment season.⁵

Questions to ask your client

Crowdfunding may not be the solution to high healthcare costs, but it can be a conversation starter. Here are some questions to ask your client when bringing up the need for critical illness insurance:

When was the last time you saw someone ask for financial help on social media?

How is your budget handling higher deductibles and healthcare costs?

When was the last time you felt you had options with your health insurance plan, or were sure what your plan would pay you?

If you or your spouse became seriously ill, wouldn't you want to be able to afford the best treatment options available?

Features, facts and fact finder

Arming yourself with information during the sales process is key to your success. Today, most consumers conduct online research before meeting with you. Proving your product knowledge and personalizing each case to meet their needs shows your true value and helps to further gain their trust.

Key Features: Assurity Critical Illness Insurance

- Flexible lump-sum benefit amounts: from $5,000 to $75,000 for simplified underwriting (full underwriting for amounts from $75,001 to $500,000); 18 to 70 (age last birthday)
- Covered conditions: include cancer, heart attack, stroke, advanced Alzheimer's, organ transplant, kidney failure and more
- Multi-benefit payout: Unlike other CI policies that are “one and done,” ours pays for each different critical illness covered in the policy if the diagnosis is separated from the prior critical illness by at least six months.
- Waiting period: No benefits will be paid for diagnosis of invasive cancer or non-invasive cancer during the first 30 days of the policy. Coverage begins immediately for all other covered conditions.
- Return of premium options: If your client dies from a cause other than a specified critical illness, their premiums will be paid to their beneficiary. A return of premium rider is also available, which returns a percentage of premiums if the policy is canceled or lapses.

* Heart attack does not include established (old) myocardial infarction occurring prior to the issue date, sudden cardiac arrest, cardiac arrest or cardiopulmonary arrest.

Key Facts: Critical Illnesses and Growing Needs of all U.S. bankruptcies are tied to medical issues.

66%

American Journal of Public Health Report, 2019

56%

of Americans don't have savings to cover an unexpected $1,000 expense.

Bankrate's Financial Security Index, January 2022

44%

of insured Americans are worried about being unable to cover their health insurance deductible.

Kaiser Family Foundation, Americans' Challenges with Health Care Costs, 2022

The median cost of hospitalizations from a heart attack is more than $53,000.

American Heart Association,
November 2017

Patients experience the highest out-of-pocket costs in the first 1-3 months after being screened and diagnosed with cancer.

American Cancer Society,
Cost of Cancer Report, April 2020

These facts can be useful information for you and your client. Posting them on social media and offering a way to solve this problem can help you prospect.

Fact Finder: Sales Scenario

Illustrate the true value of critical illness insurance with your client.
Here's an example:

Sarah is 41, married and has two school-aged daughters. She is a teacher making $58,000 annually and has a high-deductible healthcare plan.

Sarah thought she was in great shape with her coverage.

She was happy to save about $100 a month in her health savings account (HSA), and her company contributed to her HSA each year as well. But a major illness would quickly wipe out her HSA balance and leave a real financial gap.

The numbers show how affordable it can be for Sarah and her family to close the gap if illness strikes. For $43.44 a month – less than the cost of one meal out with her husband and children – she can rest assured knowing she'll have enough money to cover day-to-day expenses and any other unexpected costs.

Sarah also knows because she added the Return of Premium Rider, she will get some of her premiums back if she never needs her policy.

Using this simple approach personalizes the coverage amount for your client and shows how you can help them with an affordable policy.

Tips for closing the sale

Overcoming Objections

Many insurance professionals find a Q&A approach helpful when overcoming common objections to critical illness insurance. You can help your client understand their need and the true value of the coverage by listening and asking questions.

Objection:

I am healthy — this won't happen to me.

Ask the following questions to help your client realize the need is real.

1. Do you know someone who has been diagnosed with cancer, heart attack or stroke?
2. Did their diagnosis come as a surprise?
3. Was it tough emotionally or financially for them, their family or their business?
4. Would you want to feel more empowered in this situation?

Objection:

It's too expensive.

Ask the following questions to help your client realize the policy's true value.

1. Do you know your maximum out-of-pocket amount on your healthcare plan?
2. Do you have a health savings account?
3. Do you know how much you would need to save each pay period to cover your deductibles or maximum out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Should we compare that amount to the cost of this coverage?
5. Did you know this plan has an optional return of premium rider? If you never use it, you can get some of your money back.

Attach Value to Critical Illness Funds

It's not enough that your client understands they can do anything they want with the CI benefit amount. Providing specific expenses they could use the money for will help them understand how critical illness protection can help them personally rather than in some abstract way.

They need to understand CI offers them more than money:

- Options and choices
- Some control when they feel they have none

Tie It All Together

Tell a story: People connect to stories. Your social media feed and television are filled with stories of people who faced a critical illness but lacked the resources to get the treatment they really needed. You may even know someone personally whose life was changed by a critical illness – share their story.

Share statistics: Stats rarely sell insurance, but they can support the importance of why your client needs coverage. Figures on out-of-pocket expenses, costs of cancer treatments and even medical bankruptcy are all valuable in helping to frame the discussion with your client.

Emphasize the need: More people are surviving than ever before, but healthcare costs also continue to rise. Your client may not fully understand this reality, let alone the huge strain on finances a critical illness may bring. Remind them why this coverage is not a luxury, but a necessity.

Make it personal: Ask your client what they'd do if their spouse needed expensive out-of-network care, but couldn't afford it. If they're ever faced with hard times, having extra cash on hand can give them peace of mind now and into the future.

Be confident: When you're working with Assurity, you're working with a carrier that puts people and planet first. As a mutual organization and a Certified B Corporation, we're committed to using our business as a force for good.
